

EMILY

I am passionate about the care of young tamariki and I am a firm believer that every child has different needs and it is the responsibility of the kaiako to ensure that these needs are met.

I strive to provide a warm, caring, protected environment that tamariki feel comfortable in. By ensuring they feel a strong sense of belonging, tamariki will have the confidence to learn independently and participate in their learning.

I strongly believe that the family are the first teachers. By working together on partnership with whānau each child can reach their full potential. Respectful relationships with whānau are key to ensuring tamariki feel safe and comfortable in their environment which leads to confident, independent learners.

I work hard to build strong professional relationships with kaiako and other professionals.

I believe good communication is the key to successful professional relationships, all working collaboratively for the success of the child.

I see myself as the safe place for tamariki. I encourage tamariki to choose their own learning journey confident in the knowledge that I am with them.
